Interprofessional Fellows Program (IFP) Description

The College of Social Work's Interprofessional Fellows Program is looking for inaugural members for the 2016-2017 year! We are a dynamic organization seeking to develop our interprofessional knowledge and experience by collaborating with other professional communities through various experiential activities/projects.

Our Mission Statement:
The Florida State University College of Social Work Interprofessional Fellows Program is a dynamic society devoted to offering interprofessional educational opportunities to a select group of MSW students interested in promoting the profession of social work through interaction and collaboration with other professional communities. Students will develop their interprofessional competencies and a strong professional identity outside of the classroom in order to prepare them for excellence in their diverse career fields. We seek to improve service delivery by breaking down barriers and bridging gaps to enhance interprofessional collaboration.
