WHY FSU? WHY THE COLLEGE OF SOCIAL WORK?

Florida State University (FSU) is a nationally recognized, student-centric institution that takes pride in offering challenging, yet engaging academic programs, open communication with students and opportunities to assume leadership roles. On FSU's main campus, there are 17 colleges offering more than 270+ undergraduate, graduate, professional and doctorate programs.

The FSU College of Social Work recruits one of the most varied student cohorts on FSU's campus, giving each student the opportunity to learn from colleagues that bring invaluable professional experiences and life histories to the classrooms and field placements. Professors and students collaborate and engage in meaningful discussions and intellectual explorations enriched by a variety of cultural and social perspectives.

MSW PROGRAM HIGHLIGHTS

The Master of Social Work Program is offered on-campus (Tallahassee and Panama City) and online. Each program site or modality provides different opportunities—you can read more about each below:

Tallahassee Campus Program:

The Traditional MSW program (Tallahassee Main Campus) allows students with a bachelor's degree in any discipline other than social work to choose from the Clinical Social Work concentration or the Social Leadership concentration. The Traditional MSW program is comprised of 61 credit hours and can be completed part-time or full-time.

The Advanced Standing MSW program (Tallahassee Main Campus) allows students who have earned a Bachelor of Social Work (BSW) within seven years (from graduation date) from a program accredited by the Council on Social Work Education to complete their MSW in one year (three semesters), choosing either the Clinical Social Work concentration or Social Leadership concentration (39 credit hours) and can be completed part-time or full-time.

The FSU College of Social Work offers four joint graduate pathway programs (Tallahassee Main Campus) for both traditional and advanced standing students, with full-time programs of study. Joint graduate pathways provide qualified master's students with an opportunity to earn two master's degrees or master's/professional degrees from two academic degree programs.

- Joint MSW/MBA program combines degrees through the College of Social Work and the College of Business.
- Joint MSW/JD program combines an MSW and Juris Doctor degree in law through the College of Social Work and College of Law.
- Joint MSW/MPA program offers degrees through the FSU Reuben O'D. Askew School of Public Administration & Policy and the College of Social Work.
- Joint MSW/MS Criminology program is offered through the College of Social Work and the College of Criminology and Criminal Justice.

The College of Social Work offers several joint pathways. Students must apply and be accepted to each graduate program independently.

Panama City Campus Program:

The Panama City Campus offers a full-time Advanced Standing or Traditional MSW program. The Advanced Standing program can be completed in 4 semesters, and the Traditional program can be completed in 6 semesters. The Panama City Campus program only offers the Clinical Social Work concentration.

Online MSW Program:

The Online MSW part-time program is the first of its kind in the nation and allows students to participate in asynchronous instruction online. Students residing in Tallahassee, Panama City or surrounding counties of these areas are not eligible for the online program.

- Two Tracks:
 - Advanced Standing (for students with a Bachelor of Social Work earned within seven years from a graduation date from a CSWE accredited program required) part-time or full-time
 - Traditional (for students with a bachelor's degree in another concentration) part time only
- Clinical Social Work Concentration only
- A Student Success Advisor will be with you every step of the way

ALUMNI FEATURE

Derickk St. Fort MSW Graduate, 2012

"I was born and raised in a disenfranchised neighborhood where most people I knew rarely had second chances. Too often, their mistakes overshadowed their entire existence. I wanted to change that. I earned a bachelor's degree in criminology and became a board-certified criminal defense investigator.

After a few years, I realized I wanted to understand why people made certain choices and how to help them find healthier paths. This calling led me to social work. I could be a stronger advocate if I also understood the practice of social work. The FSU College of Social Work had a reputation for producing not only excellent practitioners but also leaders who drove meaningful change. I pursued my MSW part-time while working full-time.

The mentorship of faculty member Dr. Stephen Tripodi played a pivotal role in shaping my career path. He encouraged me not to limit myself to just investigations and to see the broader picture. That perspective gave me the skills to tell clients' stories through mitigation while connecting them with treatment and resources that support long-term change.

Social work often places you at the crossroads of human pain and systemic limitations. The MSW program prepared me to navigate the complexities of the judicial system processes with empathy, resilience and clarity. Today, I work with people facing some of the hardest moments of their lives, helping to create second chances through both accountability and compassion."

STUDENT HIGHLIGHT

Brianne Rucker MSW Student

"I grew up in a musical family, so I always knew music would be a big part of my life. I started playing the saxophone at age six. When I began my undergraduate studies, I was sure I wanted to be an educator. At the same time, I had a growing curiosity about psychology and human behavior. An internship with the Nashville Symphony, working with adults with Williams syndrome, introduced me to the field of music therapy. I applied for and earned my master's in music therapy at FSU.

But ultimately, my passion for working with underrepresented youth, particularly those who have experienced adverse childhood experiences and academic, social, and environmental barriers, led me to pursue social work. I've genuinely enjoyed all my classes so far. Each one has helped expand my knowledge and skill set in meaningful ways. Professionally, this degree will give me the tools and platform to advocate for the issues I'm passionate about. I hope to inspire others through my journey and help break down barriers for those coming after me."
