Hello Parents, Guardians, and Caregivers,

We are excited that you are interested in The Florida State University College of Social Work, Arts & Athletics Camp! My name is Virginia Scott and I am the Camp Director. This is my third summer with the camp and I could not be more thrilled to share the Seminole Spirit with your children. On behalf of the Arts & Athletics staff we want to provide a detailed overview of the camp including expectations and program content.

The Arts & Athletics Camp introduces youth ages 11-14 to the university environment and encourages them to pursue college through arts and athletics. The program aims to enhance leadership development, grow confidence in academic achievement, socialization, and other life skills for local youth, including those with limited social and economic opportunity.

The camp works with various partners on campus such as University Athletics, the Career Center, the Center for Leadership and Social Change, PeaceJam SouthEast, the Center for Academic Retention and Enhancement (CARE), V89 Radio Station, and others. These organizations fully expose youth to what a university offers.

The Arts & Athletics Camp will consist of two different weeklong sessions running from June 3rd- 7th and 10th - 14th, 2019. Selected campers will be allowed to attend only one of the weeklong sessions. Camp hours are from 7:30am – 5:30pm. Campers should be dropped off at the Thagard Building on FSU's campus no later than 7:45am. Campers need to be picked up by 5:30pm daily.

We provide campers with a light breakfast, lunch, and an afternoon snack. If your camper has any dietary preferences or food restrictions, please indicate and describe these in the application below so that we may accommodate these to the best of our ability.

We ask all campers come dressed comfortably, as they will be participating in athletic activities daily. Please ensure your child wears closed toe shoes, and clothing appropriate for extensive outdoor activity. Please no spaghetti straps, tank tops with oversized armholes, short shorts, or extremely oversized clothing. We also suggest campers bring an umbrella and/or a poncho.

Additionally, camp has a strict no phone policy. Campers may not use their phone at any time during camp. If you need to reach your child, you may contact the Program Director or Camp Director to facilitate contact.

Please complete all forms in the packet. Incomplete packets will not be considered for admission to the camp. A checklist is provided at the end of the packet for your convenience.

We look forward to potentially hosting your child with our camp, and thank you for your interest and consideration!

Best,

Virginia Scott

Dear Parent,

This year, at the Florida State University College of Social Work Arts & Athletics Camp, we are conducting a study to better understand how arts and athletics in a summer camp impact youth. Specifically, we are interested in how the camp impacts youths' self-esteem, confidence, and interest in attending college. We are inviting all children participating in the Arts & Athletic Camp to be part of a research study called Promoting Positive Youth Development through Arts and Athletics for At-risk Youth. Participating is completely voluntary. Your decision to allow your child to participate in the study does not influence their involvement in the camp.

If you agree for your child to be in this study, then your child will:

- 1) be told about the study and then asked to sign a form saying she/he is willing to be in the study
- 2) take a survey on the first day of camp that has questions about his/her self-esteem, confidence, and interest in going to college,
- 3) on the last day of camp take the same survey taken on the first day
- 4) participate in one short small group interview the last day of camp to talk about the camp.

The small group interview will be recorded, but the names of children will not be included in the transcripts. Additionally, throughout the camp, if you choose for your child to be in the study, then copies of their poetry and artwork will be made to be used in the study. Your child will keep the original poetry and artwork. Your child's identity will not be revealed in any publication that comes from this study.

There are two potential risks associated with your child participating in the study; all of which are unlikely. First, this study include your child talking about her/his experiences in a small group interview and doing so in a group may also lead to feeling uncomfortable. If your child feels uncomfortable, a group facilitator or I are available to discuss any issues or concerns privately. Your child does not have to answer any questions if she/he chooses. Second, in small group interviews, although confidentiality will be discussed and promoted by the focus group facilitator, there is the risk of a group member sharing something disclosed by another participant outside of the group. The risk to your child's privacy and confidentiality is small and we will make all efforts to minimize the risk.

Your child's participation is voluntary. Your child's involvement is not a condition of being involved with the camp. Your child can leave the study at any time without any penalty.

Any information your child provides will only be available to members of the research team. None of the information will be shared with any other else to the extent allowed by law. We will keep all information in locked filing cabinets or on secure computer drives.

The benefit of your child being in this study is the opportunity to provide feedback about how arts and athletics in a summer camp format can help youth. However, there is no direct benefit to your child for being in the study.

We want to make sure that you understand the study and answer all of your questions. Please contact me at 850-645-5935 or LSchelbe@fsu.edu for more information.

If you are interested in your child being in the study, please sign the attached consent form.

Thank you for your consideration.

Best,

Lisa Schelbe,

Assistant Professor

We invite your child to take part in a research study to examine how arts and athletics in a summer camp impact youth. Your child was selected because she/he is part of the Florida State University College of Social Work Arts & Athletics Camp. If you give permission for your child to be in this study, then we will invite him/her to sign an assent form if she/he wishes to be in this study.

There are two potential risks associated with your child participating in the study; both of which are unlikely. First, this study includes your child talking about her/his experiences in a small group interview and doing so in a group may also lead to feeling uncomfortable. Second, confidentiality may not be kept by one of the other youth in the small group interview.

More detailed information about the risks of this study can be found under “Is there any way being in this study could be bad for me? (Detailed Risks)”

Will being in this study help me in any way?

- You cannot reach the research team.
- You want to talk to someone besides the research team.
- You have questions about your rights as a research subject.
- You want to get information or provide input about this research.

How many people will be studied?

We expect about 20 children will be in this research study out of 25 children each week of camp.

What happens if I say “yes” to being in this research?

If you agree for your child to be in this study, then your child will: 1) on the first day of camp be told about the study and then asked to sign a form saying she/he is willing to be in the study, 2) take a survey on the first day of camp that has questions about his/her self-esteem, confidence, and interest in going to college, 3) on the last day of camp take the same survey taken on the first day, 4) participate in one short small group interview the last day of camp to talk about the camp. The small group interview will be recorded, but the names of children will not be included in the transcripts.

Additionally, throughout the camp, if you choose for your child to be in the study, then copies of their poetry and artwork will be made to be used in the study. Your child will keep the original poetry and artwork.

What happens if I say “yes,” but I change my mind later?

Your child can leave the research at any time it will not be held against you.

Is there any way being in this study could be bad for me? (Detailed Risks)

There are two potential risks associated with your child participating in the study; both of which are unlikely. First, this study includes your child talking about her/his experiences in a small group interview and doing so in a group may also lead to feeling uncomfortable. If your child feels uncomfortable, a group facilitator or I are available to discuss any issues or concerns privately. Your child does not have to answer any questions if she/he chooses. Second, in small group interviews, although confidentiality will be discussed and promoted by the focus group facilitator, there is the risk of a group member sharing something disclosed by another participant outside of the group. The risk to your child's privacy and confidentiality is small and we will make all efforts to minimize the risk.

What happens to the information collected for the research?

Efforts will be made to limit the use and disclosure of your child's personal information, including research study and medical records, to people who have a need to review this information. We cannot promise complete secrecy. Organizations that may inspect and copy your information include the IRB and other representatives of this organization.

Can I be removed from the research without my OK?

The person in charge of the research study can remove your child from the research study without your approval. Possible reasons for removal include if the child does not complete the survey or participate in the focus group.

What else do I need to know?
