

CHILD PROTECTION CASEWORKER SUPPORT

A Podcast by the Florida Institute for Child Welfare

Child Protection Caseworker Support is a new podcast series by the Florida Institute for Child Welfare. In the series, Dr. Jessica Pryce, Director of the Institute, sits down with child welfare professionals to discuss and offer guidance on a variety of issues pertinent to the field. Produced by Institute Program Director Marianna Tutwiler, the series will be available on the Institute’s website, SoundCloud, and Youtube starting on August 26, 2019. The podcast is coming soon to additional media platforms iTunes and Spotify. Special thanks to Aaron Kudja, the sound engineer for the podcast.

Season 1

EPISODE	TOPIC	GUEST(S)	RELEASE DATE
1	How do I balance the multiple priorities and decisions in my work?	Dr. Wilke and Timothy Morris	August 26
2	How do I use “courageous conversations” to improve the quality of supervisory interactions and case management practice?	Dr. Cynthia Leitz	September 9
3	How do I use motivational interviewing to motivate parents on my caseload?	Dr. Therese Kemper and Necia Little	September 23
4	How do I identify and help clients with depression?	Kim Purinton	October 7
5	How can I better collaborate with other professionals when a case involves both child maltreatment and intimate partner violence?	Dr. Lisa Magruder and Sara LaTorre	October 21
6	When Helping Hurts: Deciphering between Compassion Fatigue, Burnout, and Vicarious Trauma for Care Professionals	April Lott	November 4
7	Youth Perspective on Child Welfare	Terri and Florida Youth Leadership Academy	November 18
8	Color Consciousness: Taking Blinders Off	Corey Best	December 2

Listen on FICW.FSU.EDU, Youtube, and SoundCloud

For updates, follow @FSUChildWelfare  